

Was it easy for you to break my heart,
To let it fall to the ground and smash,
Into a million pieces.

That's how it was for me when you took your own life
And left this earth.

Nobody saw how down you were,
They never heard your screams,
All they saw was your fake smile and they thought it was real.

You felt that if you left this earth that nobody would care,
That everyone would be better off without you,
That life would go on,
well your right life will go on,
but it will not be the same,
there will be heart ache and sorrow.

I'm lost without you,
My heart has been smashed ,
And I'm having trouble putting the pieces back together
There's a missing piece and that piece is you.